Natural catastrophes are a major threat to sustainable development, especially in Asia and the Pacific. The developing member countries of the Asian Development Bank (ADB) are particularly vulnerable. Catastrophe risk could be transferred through a regional public-private insurance partnership. This is the key finding of the ADB Conference on Natural Catastrophe Risk Insurance Mechanisms for Asia and the Pacific held in Tokyo in November 2008. This report answers questions on disaster risk management and how ADB can ease access to catastrophe risk transfer mechanisms. It suggests a regional approach as an appropriate mechanism to unlock resources needed to better manage risk.

This ... edition ... presents an overview of American foreign policy. Prior to September 11, 2001, the debate over the future of American foreign policy proceeded at a measured pace since few pressing threats to American national security seemed to exist ... In looking at the challenges facing American foreign policy today it is also important that we keep in mind that the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11 and the Iraq War are not the only matters of concern to the United States. Other important foreign policy issues remain. For this reason we continue to examine a broad range of issues confronting American foreign policy in this volume.-To the reader.
